

Honoris Causa

Organic Farming

Specialization in

Plant Growth Regulator

G. Anil Kumar

- Conducted a major successful study on Organic farming that encourages healthy biodiversity. This study proved that Organic fertilizers is the perfect alternative. Thou this is a very big challenge to give the farmers affordable solution for organic cultivation, a remarkable development to make organic fertilizers and Pest/ Disease control solutions to next level.
- He is a promoter of co-operative movement for farmers to meet their diverse needs for the past two decades.
- Has established farmer training and counselling unit to educate farmers about Organic Farming with cost effective technologies and production enhancement.
- Has been a recipient of state and national awards in addition to several accolades from different organisations in indigenous ways of Plant Growth Regulators.
- Has presented many scientific papers in national and international seminars, conferences and symposia promoting indigenous ways of organic fertilizers and pesticides to achieve the goal of the farmer.
- Has been facilitating development of organic agriculture production, breeding, and processing methods, Evaluating potential economic benefits to producers and processors, Determining desirable traits for organic commodities and Identifying marketing and policy constraints on the expansion of organic agriculture
- Conducting on-farm research and development that emphasizes observation of experimentation with, and innovation for working organic farms
- Developing educational tools for agricultural professionals who advise producers on organic practices
- Facilitating the transition from conventional to organic agricultural practices